Hi Emily,

Sorry for the delay, I have just come back from holiday and, checking my emails, seen my reply stuck in drafts.

We would be proposing to erect a tipi in which we would have a Father Christmas, craft activities for children and sell mulled wine/festive drinks and possibly some hot festive food. There would be an admission charge to see Father Christmas. We would look to run this for at least a 9-day period encompassing two weekends close to Christmas.

An alternative/additional idea is to have several 2 hour events which are more self-contained: they would be ticketed and involve carols, festive food and drink, festive crafts for the kids, Father Christmas would go around the tables chatting to everyone and then hand out gifts as they leave.

Kind regards,

Jon
