2. Case study

Give an example where an intervention or series of interventions has contributed towards a young person/people's behaviour, physical or emotional health or behaviour change.

We have been helping a young person with their identity both through support and advice at youth club but also with concerns that their family have had too. They now chat to us openly, have received advice and made new friends with others feeling similar to how they feel. Their Mum has seen a positive difference at home recently too which is good to hear.

3. Variation to service

Has there been any significant variation to the service that you were commissioned to provide in this quarter and what actions are you planning in responses?

None
